MAKE YOUR OWN JEWELRY AT GALLERY GLENDALÉ

Glendale, Ariz. — Just like any other piece of art, people's taste in jewelry is very different.

Glendale is offering a class where you can make a necklace and earrings that fit your individual style.

Glass Fusion Jewelry Night will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m., Friday, June 14 at Gallery Glendale, 9380 W. Westgate Blvd. Participants choose colored pieces of glass and layer them. The pieces are then kiln fired to create glass pendants and matching earrings.

This isn't just a jewelry class, but an opportunity to spend mother/daughter time, have a girlfriends' night or create a wonderful personal present for a friend. And since Gallery Glendale is located at the Westgate Entertainment District, participants can shop, eat or catch a movie before or after the class.

Glass and clay artist Janine Barbour, a former arts academy instructor and member of the Glendale Arts Commission, instructs this class and helps students discover their own creativity.

The class is for adults and teens ages 13 and older and costs $59 ($71 for non-Glendale residents). Preregistration is required by Wednesday, June 12. For more information, call 623-930-4613. To register, call 623-930-2820.
